PRESIDENT OPENS
BIG CONFERENCE
ON UNEMPLOYMENT

ADDRESSES LEADERS ON LABOR SITUATION
IN COUNTRY.
SEES WIDE EFFECT
Service to World Urged by Executive; Hoover Is Chairman.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington.—The national unemployment conference, which the administration hopes will evolve the means of putting the nation's involuntary idle back to work, was formally opened here Monday by President Harding.

Addressing the industrial, economic and labor leaders comprising the conference, the president described the present industrial depression as "a war of inheritance throughout the world," for which as applied to the United States, he added, he "would have little enthusiasm for any proposed relief which seeks either palliation or tonic from the public treasury."

Belief was expressed by the president that the results of the conference would be felt beyond the borders of the United States and that the delegates in their deliberations would be performing a "service to the world."

Readjustment Needed
"Fundamentally sound, financially strong, industrially unimpaired, commercially consistent and politically unafraid," the president asserted, "there ought to be work for everybody in the United States who chooses to work, and our condition at home and our place in the world depends on everybody going to work and producing it with that patriotism and devotion which make for a fortunate and happy people."

The president declared "the open, sure, and onward way to rid the nation of the war's aftermath of depression involved 'liquidation, reorganization, readjustment, reestablishment, taking account of things done, and sober contemplation of things to be done.' Any other way, he added, was only hugging a delusion."

Hoover Is Chairman
The delegates were told, by Mr. Harding, that they had been invited into the conference "to solve the long-controverted problems of our social system and that Secretary Hoover, whom he had designated chairman of the conference, would lay before them the program of discussion."

In telling the conference members that they were destined to perform a "distinguished foreigner" as having recently declared:

"Mr. President, our people are deeply interested in the American conference on unemployment, because our problem is akin to your own and your relief in the United States will be an added signal of hope from America to the peoples who are so much depressed."

World Influence

General Pilsudski was not injured, but Count Grolowski, who was accompanying him, was wounded in the leg. The president insisted on going to the theater and was enthusiastically cheered by the audience when he entered.

The would-be assassin attempted suicide, but was arrested before he could end his life.

Must Rebuild
Beloit Track
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison.—The railroad commission on Monday ordered the Chicago and Northwestern railroad to re-build a spur track to the Thompson Pile and Engine Works of Beloit within 30 days. The railroad had taken up its tracks to the company's plant during the night and is said to have left no means of transporting the products to a new shipping place.

Saving on Eggs
A few chickens can be fed from the scraps from your table and a few dollars' worth of grain, and they will more than pay for their keep by keeping you in fresh eggs at times when fresh eggs are hard to get from the store.

For a good reason of her own Mrs. Vern Frankfurter, 123 North Pearl street, decided to sell her chickens. She ran this Classified Ad in the Gazette.

Stricken With Heart
Failure.

Charles Burrow, 53, dropped dead Monday morning while at work for the Rockford & Interurban company repairing its road-bed on South Franklin street, between Oak and Galena streets. Death was pronounced due to heart failure by Dr. George W. Field who was immediately called.

Burrow was an old resident of Beloit and had worked in a number of the plants there. He lived at 925 Vernon avenue. He was in the employ of the Beloit Brass Works two years ago.

As a laborer for the Interurban company, he had been in Janesville for several days and was in the act of welding a heavy bar when stricken dead. Fellow workmen rushed to his aid thinking he had suffered a fainting spell. Efforts to revive him failed. He was evidently dead before he struck the pavement.

County Coroner Lynn Whaley investigated the case and notified relatives in Beloit. He leaves a wife, and family according to advices received here.

Payne told the police he was sitting in his automobile, accompanied by a young woman when at pistol point he was commanded to leave the machine by three men who hobbled across the road with him, two on crutches and the other on a cane, appropriated the $21 and then ordered him back to the car and threatened to shoot unless he drove away slowly.

AIR BOMB PUTS END

A Martin bomber, flying over the old warship, anchored off Tangier Island in Chesapeake bay, tore off her mast, destroyed the superstructure and by three men over on her side in shallow water. Six other planes almost simultaneously rained 7,000 and 2,000 pound bombs on the bulk as she went down. The Alabama was a sister ship of the Wisconsin and Illinois.

San Francisco.—Dr. Arthur Beardslee, testifies Monday in the police court examination, of a man accused of murdering a woman.

Beardslee, who is a doctor, is charged with having caused, in great pain when he was called into the case, the death of a woman.

In the absence of his attorneys, Beardslee acted for himself Monday in answering the manslaughter charge pending against him should be continued until Oct. 3.

Miss Rappe's writting in, intense pain, overshadowed evidence of alcoholism. Dr. Beardslee testified, and it was necessary to quiet her by the use of a drug.

This was in the evening of Sept. 5, a few hours after the Hotel St. Francis party, out of which the charges against Beardslee arose, according to the physician, and early the next morning, he discovered evidence to support an earlier conclusion that Miss Rappe had suffered an internal injury.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Edgerton.—Damage done to the Carlton hotel Sunday night by fire, which broke out in the storeroom and spread through the building, is estimated at $8,000 by Conrad McDonald, who, with his son, Roy, manage the hotel.

The fire was discovered by the hotel clerk about 3 p. m. in the kitchen and it spread through the partitions into the dining room and filled the building with a dense smoke. The fire department battled for some time before extinguishing the blaze. Most of the damage is from the smoke, Mr. McDonald said Monday, as the bed linen, furniture and walls and ceiling will all require cleaning.

Closed Three Days.
As a result of the fire the hotel will be closed until Wednesday night. Hotels in Janesville and Stoughton have been notified, not to send saloons to Edgerton to be accommodated at the hotel, until that time.

Only seven of the 24 guests in the building, which has 40 rooms, had retired when the fire was discovered. All were aroused and got out safely after dressing.

BIG PROGRAM OF
BUILDING BEGUN
BY LUMBER FIRM

BRITTINGHAM & HIXON
TO MOVE TO SOUTH
RIVER ST.
SEVEN BUILDINGS
Work Started on Improvements to Cost $20,000 to $30,000.

Building operations have been started on South River street near the Townsend Tractor plant to provide the Brittingham & Hixon Lumber company with one of the largest and best equipped lumber and coal yards in Southern Wisconsin. The new building will cost seven buildings on the first-class tract at a cost of from $20,000 to $30,000, according to H. J. Dane, local manager, formerly general manager of the Whitewater Brick & Tile company. The new building is now beginning is the culmination of plans made seven years ago but which were not carried through on account of the war, explained Mr. Dane. "We have things well under way now and in six months we hope to have the entire job completed. The entire industry will then be moved there from the present location on West Milwaukee street."

Has Track Facilities.
Workmen under Ely & Fuller are now on the site pouring concrete for the foundation of the seven buildings. Val Severson has been engaged as general foreman of construction the plan being to carry out the entire project by July 1st.

The new building is east of the South River street and is bounded on the east by Rock River at a point where it bends to flow westerly through Monterey. One advantage of the new building is the side-track facilities, the St. Paul switching line to Samson plant 2 going directly by the new yards. Where the company's yards are now located it is necessary to load all shipments as there is no possibility of having a side-track.

32,000 Floor Space.
The seven buildings will immediately contain 32,000 square feet of floor space, or several hundred percent more than the company has in its present location. It is necessary to load all shipments as there is no possibility of having a side-track.

Following are the buildings planned:

Office and store room, frame stucco, 20 by 110 feet, $2,000.

Cement shed, frame stucco, 100 by 20 feet, $2,500.

Lumber shed, frame, 34 by 250 feet, $2,500.

Lumber shed, frame, 34 by 250 feet, $2,500.

Mill works, cement block, 40 by 80 feet, $1,000.

Coal bin, frame, 15 by 100 feet, $5,000.

The plan is to have a series of large tubular structures, like silos, for coal storage with a special arrangement for filling with buckets and a derrick.

MISSING FRESHMAN

Wausau.—The existence of an organization known as a "moonshiners' union" has been uncovered in Wisconsin, according to federal authorities, whose purpose is to protect its members and provide a defense fund for combating criminal prosecution.

A Stevens Point man is said to be the organizer of the movement and to be engaged in an active campaign to enlist moonshiners and home brewers in the ranks of the moonshiners' union.

Farmers Solicited.
Farmers in the vicinity of the town of Badent were solicited last week by the Stevens Point man, to join the association. The aims of the union as set forth to the men include a membership of 200 with an initiation fee of $5 per moonshiner. This would provide an immediate defense fund, according to the prospectus of the organizer, and bring the union to start functioning.

In the event of the arrest of any member of the moonshiners' union for playing his position, or evading the union plans to pay his attorney's fees and fines, if the latter are imposed.

Seek Membership List.
Activities of the union have been brought to federal agents and an effort is being made to obtain a membership list of the union. Possession of the list by the prohibition enforcement officers, it is believed, will enable them to locate and arrest moonshiners.

The field operations by the union are to cover the southern and eastern parts of Marathon county and eastern parts of Portage county.

Analysis of Janesville
City Government

Prepared for the Janesville Daily Gazette by Gaylord Cummin, C. E., of the Institute for Public Service, of New York and former city manager of Jackson, and Grand Rapids, Mich., he tells of the waste and loss in the present method of making purchases for the city, how careless methods exist, and how the purchasing is divided up among all departments. Mr. Cummin also makes some recommendations for correcting the evil of waste which might well be adopted by the city government.

In the installment of Tuesday Mr. Cummin will go into the matter of street improvement and street paving as well as other subjects coming under the head of the street department. It will be interesting reading for the tax payers of Janesville.

IV.—PURCHASING.
One of the large sources of waste in most municipal governments is in the purchase of supplies, materials, equipment and in contracting for service or construction. This is largely due to the fact that the public has never been impressed with the possibilities of scientific purchasing and also that every city has a number of individuals who benefit from shoddily and extravagant purchasing on the part of the city and therefore oppose more efficient and economical methods.

As has been stated in this report, purchasing for the city is done by a Council Committee, the City Clerk and department heads. With so many concerned it is impossible that waste should not creep in.

Modern purchasing is a science. It is necessary to know prices, quality, market conditions, etc., if the most economical purchasing is to be done. Where possible, purchases should be made in quantity, units not needed immediately placed in a properly operated store house and delivered to the user when needed. Practically all articles should be bought on specifications with full competition and the articles carefully inspected to see that they conform to requirements. Proper methods should take entire advantage of the purchasing power and A-1 credit of the city. There is no excuse for a city paying retail prices for supplies and materials. No industry of similar size does. If results are expected it is necessary to put all buying in the hands of someone who has time to think about it and knows the game.

In Janesville conditions are as might be expected. Many purchases are made without any attempt being apparent to get the lowest price, many things are bought at retail. Lack of standards of quality makes purchasing authorities open to specious selling arguments of clever salesmen—the best talker gets the business, not quality and price.

A casual glance through recent bills shows purchases at retail of:

1 shovel; 5 pounds of nails; 1 pair of boots, etc.
Horse shoeing, divided between the shops in the city, instead of getting the best price and giving it all to one. Auto repair at any old place.

55TH ENCAMPMENT AFTER DISORDERS

Fife and Drum Sound in Indianapolis Streets as Veterans Arrive.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Indianapolis.—Rattling drumsticks and the squealing of ancient fifes filled the air of the city as the 55th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic opened Monday. Many of the veterans were bowed with years, but many others preserved their military carriage as they marched behind the drum corps.

Monday was devoted to the registration of the visiting veterans. Reception committee members estimated that 10,000 members were here Sunday. Although official reports show that since last year's meeting, death has taken 9,000 members of the organization, it was expected that the attendance this year would be nearly as large as that of last meeting.

Representatives of Milwaukee and Des Moines announced they would attempt to obtain the 56th encampment for their cities.

Monday night the visitors will be the guests at a reception given by state and city officials.

Belfast.—Belfast was quiet Monday morning, a full dozen shots fired on the Newtownards road being the only outward indications of the excitement aroused by the disturbances of Sunday night in which several homes were burned and three persons killed and some two score wounded.

Fears were expressed, however, that there would be action here and there for the hour's throwing and the resulting deaths unless the military took vigorous action to suppress the disorderly tendency. The military erected barbed wire and sandbag barricades in the Ballymacarrett district Monday. Pickets were posted at danger points.

Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, after a conference here with military and police Monday afternoon, announced it had been decided to mobilize special constabulary in certain parts of Northern Ireland for the maintenance of order.

Chicago.—Whether or not a general strike shall be called by the six most powerful railroad unions may be decided within the hour. The American Railway Union, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen gathered here Monday to count the 150,000 strike ballots of their organization, cast to decide whether or not the union will accept the wage cut instituted recently by the United States railroad labor board.

Next Monday officials of four more unions—the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and The Switchmen's Union of North America, will meet here to count strike ballots cast by their 250,000 members.

More than 200,000 shop crafts employees already have voted by an overwhelming majority—according to figures announced last week ago—to strike rather than accept the wage cut. But on advice of their leaders are waiting for the labor board to complete its announcement of new working agreements, and for the other unions to decide whether or not they will support the strike and make it general.

Chief Fitzmorris has announced his intention of dismissing every man implicated in liquor cases and claims he has a list of men to replace hundreds of policemen if it becomes necessary to dismiss that many.

Nansen Fights
Relief Battle

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

General Reports that circulation here Monday forenoon, apparently on unquestionable authority, that Dr. Fridtjof Nansen of Norway had resigned as commissioner for Russian relief, because of what he deemed the unfavorable attitude towards his work taken by a sub-committee of the League of Nations.

The sub-committee to whose action Dr. Nansen took exception was the one to which had been referred his appeal for 30,000,000 pounds sterling for Russian famine relief. He decided not to ask the assembly to appeal to the nations of the world for funds to feed Russia.

The decision of the sub-committee was said to have been influenced by information reaching it that Great Britain had decided to withhold all credits to Soviet Russia. Dr. Nansen, however, stated that he had decided not to resign, but to fight out the question in the full commission and then if necessary, to resign.

GOVERNMENT NOW BACKS WAGE CUTS

Move Dangerous Politically but Is Aid to Normalcy, Explanation.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.
Washington.—Wages must come lower. The Harding administration faced with an issue of continuing the present wage scales in the navy yards, resisted the appeals of organized labor, made a drastic cut. The controversy was carried up from the navy department to the cabinet where President Harding took a hand. Although private industry has been struggling for months, the government has avoided any moral support either side.

When the navy yard dispute arose, the issue was inescapable and now the word has gone forth from the administration that the quickest way to normalcy heretofore is by wage cuts.

The White House mails have been full of letters from taxpayers urging a diminution of government expenditure. The administration has felt that wage cuts especially in government enterprises is an inevitable and logical answer to the demand for economy.

As to Wage Cut
Curiously enough, the business men of the national capital pleaded for labor in the sense that the government was asked not to make the wage cuts so drastic. The Washington merchants were led to take this action by the argument that a cut in wages meant a curtailment of buying power. Labor headquarters admit that they consistently urged a relationship between the retail community and wage scales but nowhere has that theory been so conspicuously championed as here in the national capital. The plan however was unavailing. The Harding administration stood pat.

Danger Politically
Politically speaking the endorsement of an administration of any issue that relates to wages always has been a dangerous move. The Wilson administration granted practically every demand for wage increases and while earning the friendship of organized labor, lost the support of many employers who insisted that the government was setting an uncomfortable precedent. It is realized by administration officials that everything the government says on the subject of wages will be the basis of discussion by both sides. Fortunately for the Harding administration the railroad problem had been passed over to the railroad board, a separate institution, and the board were in private hands so that the onus for wage reductions did not fall on the administration. The situation in the navy yards however is complete responsibility. The hope, of course, is that painful as the process of reduced wages may be, it will justify the means and that when the next budget comes the scale of living costs will have been adjusted, also that the cut in the pay envelope will not be so much resented.

Cut Labor Expense
Organized labor is in a paradoxical position, however, with respect to the navy yard cuts. Labor has taken a firm stand for disarmament. The reduction in the work in the navy yards means a curtailment of government expenditure on armament. Labor is enthusiastic for disarmament and cannot very well make much of an outcry against the laying off of workmen who are engaged in armament. On the other hand, it is reported that the purpose of the wage reduction is not alone government economy but an effort to transfer the burden of the cost of the war to the workers. The government has always paid high grade mechanics a scale of wages higher than those in private yards.

High Class of Labor
This has kept within the navy yards a class of skilled labor, unneeded outside the government. The drop in the private yards and enable them to do more government work than heretofore. It may be that the movement for the abolition of government navy yards is growing. It is an age-old controversy with much to be said on both sides. But labor suspects that the private interests may stand to gain from the cutting of wages and will gather in so many high grade workers as to enable them to get most of the construction work hereafter.

APPLETON MAN IS SUED FOR SLANDER

Commissioner Barber Starts Action Following Alleged Bribery Charge.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison.—A charge of criminal slander has been preferred by W. E. Barber, chairman of the state conservation commission, against Max Schwab, Appleton, field secretary for the Wisconsin Game Protective association.

Schwab, in a speech before the Red and Gun club at Shawano, March 8, accused Barber of accepting a bribe of $5,000 from a man named Oshkosh to get the trapping season ahead 10 days. Barber promptly started civil action against Schwab but dropped it when the two men in Milwaukee later and Schwab was said to have retracted his statement.

Since that time Commissioner Barber heard Schwab was repeating his charges and instituted the criminal slander proceedings. Schwab was arrested Aug. 28 and pleaded not guilty at the preliminary hearing. He will be arraigned Oct. 3 at Shawano.

'DOGSKIN' JOHNSON HEARD THIS WEEK

Confessed Slayer Will Attempt to Prove Innocence at Hearing.

Madison.—John A. (Dogskin) Johnson, formerly of Daylington, sentenced to life imprisonment in 1911 for his confessed slaying of Annie Lemberger in Madison, will be brought here Friday in an attempt to gain a pardon.

Governor Blaine, for the first time in the history of the state, has appointed a special commissioner, J. B. Smith, to hear the case. This is necessary as Johnson confessed on the basis of circumstantial evidence and no now claims he was coerced by threats and a lynching party.

Johnson's case is the reverse of all cases in the United States where a person, charged with a crime, is innocent until proved guilty. As Johnson has confessed his guilt, it is up to him to prove he is innocent. More than 70 witnesses have been called to testify.

Inheritance taxes for the quarter ending October 1 are estimated by Mr. Johnson at $175,000 although he says that they might exceed this total by several thousands of dollars due to late returns of taxes on inheritances last year brought the state over $1,000,000. Rates have since been doubled so that nearly $2,000,000 can be expected from this source this coming year.

The interest on money deposited in state depositories throughout Wisconsin, which also falls due quarterly, will be $45,000, according to the statement.

Interest on United States Certificates of Indebtedness, $2,000,000 of which the state holds, amounts to $22,575 for the quarter ending Oct. 1. A total interest return of $30,575 which will be added to the state's general fund.

A frost is needed before all the hickory nuts will be in the best condition for gathering. With so many people going to the woods with bags, pails and various contrivances for knocking down the shucks, it is doubted whether there will be any hickory nuts left after the first frost.

"The public believes in getting them while the getting is good," remark the farm owners.

NORMAL SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE

Larger Attendance Reported Than in 1920.—Some Decreases.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison.—Enrollment in the nine normal schools of Wisconsin is 1931, an increase of 22 from the enrollment of 1920, a report today of William Kille, secretary of the board of normal records, shows. This is an increase of 23 per cent, above the total number of students from 1916 to 1920 of 4957 in 1921.

All of the normal schools with the exception of Eau Claire, Platteville, River Falls and Whitewater, showed an enrollment at least 100 greater than last year, and all of them without exception showed some increase. Milwaukee Normal had an enrollment of 492 from the previous enrollment of 492, the new total reaching 511, while Platteville increased from 230 to 239, a jump of 60 in students. An increase of 43 is shown in the number rose from 408 to 500.

There are 128 more students at Stevens Point normal school than there were last year, when the number stood at 428. The enrollment is now 548. Superior has 435 students this year, an increase of 121 over last year when 274 were in attendance while the Whitewater normal has 513 students compared to 436 in 1920.

The marked rise in enrollment at normal schools is attributed to the industrial depression and the fact that it has shown others that teaching offers a better field than industry.

No figures on enrollment in the industrial courses offered in the schools have been completely tabulated, but it is said that the enrollment in college courses has not increased in proportion to the teacher training course.

It is expected that the great increase in enrollment may make additional instructors necessary, normal for a generally made formal application. The legislature has granted an appropriation for the next two years which is much larger than that allowed during the past biennium.

GAS RATES HEARING AT MADISON OCT. 6

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

La Crosse is the only city in the present which has made formal application, but it is expected that others will apply to the commission within a short time.

Cheaper coal for industrial purposes is at the basis of the claim that the companies should furnish gas at a lower rate.

DESK JOBS ARE CAUSE OF EARLY OLD AGE IN MEN

Madison.—Personal observation of 10,000 public employees during 20 years in state service has convinced John A. Hazelwood, secretary and chief examiner of the civil service commission, that persons having desk positions become pessimistic and grow old early while employees in field work remain young in appearance.

He has just published a book entitled "Fun," written in the interest of public employees, he says, in order to serve as a medium for keeping them cheerful. "I do not believe in silly humor as an aid to office people, but I do think that if they can be made seekers after fun, at the proper time, much better work would be done more happily and would be experienced and youthful appearance kept," Mr. Hazelwood says in a statement accompanying publication of his book.

New railway folders on Rocky Mountain National Park, Outings in Utah and Idaho, and the Pacific Northwest and Alaska have been collected by the Gazette Travel Bureau and may be seen at the Gazette Office.

River Falls Normal Has 500 Enrollment

River Falls.—With the heaviest registration in the department of agriculture and an enrollment of 500 in the school, the River Falls normal has begun its winter session. So far there are 150 more students enrolled than there were at this time last year.

A new department for the training of junior high school teachers has been added to the school, and is being well received by those wanting to take up this work. Officials state that classrooms are overcrowded, and an increase in both faculty and equipment is urgent.

Otto Eggbrecht, Waupun, is the new director of athletics. Miss Mattie B. Howell, Pennimore, is a new teacher in the training school department. Several other new instructors have been added to the faculty roll.

While the legislature failed to provide for the much needed training school building, officials say, an appropriation was made for the construction of a new heating plant. The building is now under construction.

PRESIDENT OPENS WORK CONFERENCE

True that no citizen is without example to some one among his fellows, which I believe to be overwhelmingly true, the nations great and small are influencing others in all they do.

The industrial depression which we are feeling is a war inheritance throughout the world. We are humanly stressed in that production which is impelled by national desperate in self preservation. From such a test there is inevitable reaction. With the world involved there is no escape for any of the world from the valleys of depression. Though we suffered less than many of those with whom we were associated, and less than any of those against whom we contended, we were inevitable that we experience the fever's aftermath and some to know depression before we could become normal again.

Mr. Find Firm Ground

"Liquidation, reorganization, readjustment, reestablishment, taking account of things done and sober contemplation of things to be done, the duties of firm ground, and the open, sure and onward way—all these are a part of the inevitable and he who thinks they might have been avoided by this plan or that, or this policy or that, or this way or that, or this relationship or that only hinders the decision, when reason is needed for a safe counsel."

"You have been summoned to counsel all America, to apply your knowledge and your experience in relieving a condition which 'concerns all America,' the president further told the conference. 'Specifically you are to deal with unemployment, which is a way to restoring the arterial circulation which is the very life blood of the republic.'"

Winter Is Problem

There is always unemployment. Under most favorable conditions, I am told, there are a million and a half in the United States who are not at work, but there is excessive unemployment today and we are concerned not alone in its diminution, but we are frankly anxious, under the involved conditions, lest it grow worse with hardships of the winter season soon to come. The problem of unemployment is the most difficult with which we are confronted.

But there are no problems affecting our national life and the welfare of the American people which we cannot and will not solve. If we fail today, we will try again tomorrow.

It is fair to say that you are not asked to solve the long contemplated problems of our social system. We have bulldozed the America of today and the fundamentals of economic, industrial and political life which made us what we are, and the temple requires no remodeling now. We are incontrovertibly sound.

Morally Depressed

We are constitutionally strong. We are morally depressed, after a fever, and we want to know the way, everybody in America—capital and labor, employer and employee, capitalists of industry and the privates in the trenches will go over the top of an advance drive of peace. Frankly, it is difficult to know whether we have reached that bedrock to which reaction runs before the upward course begins, but here are the positive of the forces which make for all we are or ever can be, and your soundings ought to be reliable.

I would have little enthusiasm for any proposed relief which sent either patient or tonic from the public treasury. The excess of stimulation from that source is to be reckoned a cause of trouble rather than a source of cure. We should believe in little in a remedial way if we continued to excite a contributing cause.

It is not my thought to suggest your lines of conference. I have wished to say to you that the people of the United States are very deeply interested, not alone the unemployed, but all who are concerned for our commonwealth and the world is looking on to find helpfulness in our American example.

Analysis of Janesville City Government

gravel companies for $1.50, delivered on the street. It is doubtful whether the city can load and deliver gravel for less than $2.50 per yard, plus the pit charge, providing the operation of terms is reasonably efficient. This item alone must mean the loss of several thousand dollars annually.

The writer has found it wise, when large amounts of gravel were to be used, to buy a gravel hill in a good location, but where the hill made the use of the property for buildings impossible, put in modern excavation machinery, taking off the gravel and has then been able to sell the resulting good lots for the amount originally paid. This might be possible in Janesville with a little planning.

Fire hose was purchased last April without competition as far as cost was concerned. A well known brand was purchased at $1.25 per foot. This hose is not built on detailed specifications and is not inspected during manufacture by any representative of the city.

At the same time, hose built to the street specifications of the National Board of Fire Underwriters and inspected by them, could be bought for 88¢ a foot. This would have meant a saving of $182.50 on this small order. The writer has carefully observed both of these kinds of hose and has had just as good results from the cheaper hose as from the more expensive.

The city is buying "high test" gasoline at from five to six cents above the price of the ordinary kind and using it in automobiles and trucks. There is a lot of "bunk" in the "high test" argument. There is no excuse for its use in the warm months although there possibly may be in very cold weather. It is exceedingly doubtful whether there is any economy in its use. There certainly is not enough saving in its use to justify paying 25% more for it. As the use of the low cost gasoline would cut the city's bills over 20%, it would seem that very positive proof be required of the greater efficiency of the more expensive article or its use be discontinued.

The specifications covering asphalt for street paving call for "Natural asphalt or its equal as determined by the Board of Public Works." This is in effect a closed specification, as there is only one "natural" asphalt, namely, "Trinidad," sold by the Barber Asphalt Company.

Put a decision up to laymen as to the kind of asphalt to be used under this specification and "Trinidad" will get the job ninety-nine times out of one hundred. As a matter of fact, the so-called "oil" asphalts are just as satisfactory as is the "natural." The writer has laid thousands of square yards with both kinds and is convinced that there is no reason for paying one cent more for one than the other.

At the last letting of asphalt paving, the price for "Aztec" (a Mexican oil asphalt) was several thousand dollars below the price for "Trinidad," but "Trinidad" got the job.

The fact that there is practically no chance for any other asphalt under these specifications limits competition and is probably responsible for lack of bids on "Texaco," "Stanaland" and other asphalts. The use of the "open" specifications as adopted by the American Society of Municipal Improvements, and which specifies the physical characteristics and chemical composition, will correct this defect.

Stationery and office supplies are now bought by the City Clerk in a satisfactory manner. Everything else is apparently bought with little care as to quality or price, trade discounts are not insisted upon, cash discounts are not always taken; practically all small articles are bought at retail in small quantities, large articles are bought at list prices. The city should buy practically nothing at retail and should be able to secure preferential treatment, get trade and cash discounts and pay less than list price for almost all articles purchased.

Just how much waste exists due to poor purchasing in Janesville is hard to say. Judging by the budget total purchases, it must amount to at least $100,000 annually.

Where retail prices are paid, at least 25% less must be figured as an average. Experience has shown that good specifications and careful buying will cut cost from ten to seventy per cent.

Figuring a purchasing volume of $100,000, not including contracts and with full consideration of present methods based on an examination of the bills, FROM $15,000 TO $25,000 COULD BE SAVED by scientific purchasing for Janesvillean judgment of the writer.

It certainly would pay the city well to centralize purchasing, hire a trained man and give him full charge. He will save many times his cost. This work might be given to the City Clerk, who with proper clerical assistance could certainly save the city a large sum.

Placing first and third, the Samson tractor company won high honors during the plowing competition held Saturday at Big Rock, Ill., according to information received by President A. A. Craig.

The Samson tractor, driven by Harry Schmidt, was marked 91, higher than any other motor-driven plowing outfit in the 24th classic contest. A Samson outfit driven by Peter J. Nichols, placed third. They were entered by dealers in the Illinois district.

Competitors in the Big Rock contest were marked on the various showing made by their equipment. Besides speed, the judges took into consideration the uniform depth of furrows, the fuel and oil used, condition of motor after contest and general efficiency.

For the last two years the Samson as a company has not entered the Illinois plowing contests. For the first time since previous to 1919, the plows made by the Janesville Machine company—which became the implement branch of the Samson—were victors in the Illinois classic. The Janesville plow with its exceptional curved bottom, never failed to win first honors.

Thousands watched the plowing contests on the farm at Big Rock Saturday. There were contests for both motor and horse driven equipment.

In addition to winning at Big Rock, the Samson won recent contests held in Kansas.

BLAMES CHURCHES FOR CRIME WAVE

Dr. Trennery Urges More Attention to Sunday School Work.

Rally day, when special emphasis is given to Sunday school work, was celebrated in several Protestant churches here Sunday. At the Catholic church Dr. M. J. Trennery, of the extension department of the Sunday school board, Chicago, gave an inspiring talk on the importance of training the young people in religious thought.

"The Sunday schools of America," he said, "are the strongest foundations of the republican governments of the world."

"The church has been neglecting its opportunities in not spending more money and effort on its young people," he said. "The wave of crime can be held to the lack of moral training of youth. While groups of young and susceptible to religious teaching."

Special exercises in the Sunday schools were held at noon and at the evening service some of the classes contributed features of interest, and Dr. Trennery also spoke. The church was decorated with plants and fall flowers. Their careful preparation and development of this program by Superintendent E. Lane resulted in the assembly of the largest attendance since the erection of the present building.

At the Baptist church the Rally day exercises are confined to the Sunday school, when groups of children are promoted from different grades, and have special exercises showing proficiency in studies. The children promoted from the grade roll to beginners as reported by Mrs. O. D. Antisdel, superintendent of the former, are: Eugene Foster, Russell Robbins, Charlotte and Charlyn Nanz, Sara Lindsey, Mary Gamble, Frances Cattle Robbins, Mildred Woolsey, Thomas Anderson, Verna Wolf, Norman Ross, Marjorie Dowd, Ruth Sorenson, Gordon Boelsheim.

Those promoted from the beginners by Mrs. S. S. Kietz, the superintendent, are: Wilbur Cain, Allen Antisdel, Barbara, Ridley, Elaine Johnson, Eunice Foster, Elaine Smith, Paul Holte and Paul Peterson.

LIBERTY COUPONS ARE LAYING IDLE

Bond Holders Reported Lax in Cashing Coupons When Due.

Hundreds of dollars of interest accrued on Liberty and Victory bond issues have been put away and forgotten after the date which they are due, which should be earning interest in the opinion of local bankers who have found that people do not cash the coupons when they are due. The coupons can be collected at any time but if they are clipped and put in the bank they will earn money for the investor.

Many people bring the bonds to the banks to have the coupons clipped believing that this must be done. This is not necessary. The attached coupons are accepted as cash in the banks or at the postoffice. It is, however, a good plan to assure identity of the coupons as they have been stolen by bankers, say.

Of the nine bond issues of the government only three were permanent bonds with the coupons attached up to the time of maturity. They are the 1st Liberty bond issue of 3 1/2% of 1917 maturing June 15, 1932; and the Victory 3 1/2% and the 4 1/2% issues of 1918 maturing Mar. 20, 1922. The other bond issues must be exchanged for permanent bonds to which are attached the interest coupons up to the time of maturity of the bonds, some of which run for 25 and 27 years.

ADJUTANT GENERAL ORLANDO HOLWAY.

The calendar is the only thing that will tell the people of Wisconsin that Adjutant General Orlando Holway will arrive at the age of 54 on October 4, and that this fact constitutes the dead line where he must retire from service. However, it is possible that he may be called back into active service after he has gone through the ceremony of stepping out. The people of Wisconsin will sincerely hope so. Gen. Holway has not and overcome every obstacle in a period when the National Guard has meant more to the state and the nation than ever in its long and splendid history. He is a red tape cutter. He is like John Sherman, who, when asked how he was to resume specie payments replied, "The way to resume is to resume," and we resumed. So with Gen.
Holway. "The way to make an army is to make it," said he and it was done. Much to the chagrin and regret of the German army that got an acquaintance with the 32nd division and the boys in the Rainbow.
Keep Gen. Holway. Anybody who thinks 54
is old should take the General on for a fatiguing task. He will take a handicap and beat them all.

democrats to dis-Bursum.

WHERE THE WEAKNESS IS APPARENT.

In the first part of the report of Gaylord Cum-min, prepared for the Gazette and published Saturday, there is a clear statement that little will ever be accomplished under the present form of city government. Other parts of the report printed today and to follow will add to this evidence. Corrections may be made and remedies are suggested that will help. It would seem that here is a splendid opportunity for the council and the administrative officials of the city to give the greatest attention to the recommendations of Mr. Cummin. In fact, many cities have employed
Mr. Cummin and paid him from the public funds, for a searching examination such as the Gazette
has had made, with the purpose of bettering conditions and increasing the efficiency of city governmental operations. The weakness of the system is so apparent in the plan that the best efforts are certainly necessary to make the departments coordinate perfectly if there is ever a reduction of waste, and 100 cents in value of service is to be received from each spent dollar. The very analysis of the method of making the budget cannot help but be of distinct assistance to the council. It really follows closely the lines laid down in the budget law passed by the legislature
this year, a rule of action more often flouted than observed.
Here is where the better judgment and common sense of the administration is necessary if ever there is to be a different condition existing—and that is to go over the recommendations of Mr. Cummin, a specialist in this business, and see if some of the things cannot be remedied even with the present cumbersome charter laws. Otherwise the public will have no alternative but to believe that the derelictions have been connived
at and are the result of deliberate failure to do things economically and with an eye not to the public good but for personal interest.
It certainly seems that all might get together
on the ground that there never has been a better time to call attention to the holes in the municipal government's back than right now. While all business organizations began to curtail expenditure and to cut off waste last year and did not wait for the treasury to be empty, we have been going along at a spendthrift pace with slight attention to the available funds until the city's pocketbook was empty. Last year the first time a public hearing was held on the budget.

It will be remembered that beginning back in May, 1920, the Gazette repeatedly called attention to the necessity for a budget that was a budget in fact and not a game of guess work and that there should be public hearings and recommendations as to many things that should be entered into the proposed list of expenditures. What happened after a considerable flourish of trumpets,
was the budget which has been the guide during 1921. It was like a guide board with the paint rubbed off; the board was there but it was quite useless in directing the one most interested,
as is shown by Mr. Cummin.
Would it not be of good judgment on the part of the administration to carefully examine the recommendations of Mr. Cummin as they appear from day to day? It will be found that nothing appears there detrimental to good city govern-

A BANKER ETHNOLOGIST

By FREDERIC J. HASLIN.
Springfield, Ill.—What is said to be one of the finest collections of aboriginal American relics and weapons in the world is the work of Edward
W. Payne, a banker of this city.
Not only is the collection a most unusual one,
but the making of it is a most unusual avocation for an American business man. It is true that some wealthy men in this country collect pictures, prints of rare books, often employing experts to do most of the work of selection and buying. But these men enter well known fields, and those who most part obtain treasures which would otherwise be made available to the public in other places.
Of course, the majority of business men devote
all of their leisure to amusement.
Mr. Payne is the rare example of a man who has devoted his leisure for 30 years to collecting material of high scientific value, much of which would never have otherwise been brought to light. He contemplates eventually presenting his collection to some public institution, perhaps to either the University of Chicago or to the Field Columbian Museum. At present, however, he has four rooms of Mr. Payne's dwelling. The rest of it is stored away, five vaults being filled with the more valuable objects.
Most of the objects in the Payne collection
came from the great central region of the continent in which he lives. This region, as you may know, is dotted with artificial mounds, varying from relatively small ones to some that rival the pyramids in bulk. It is from these mounds that a large part of the Payne collection has come. It includes innumerable arrowheads, spearheads, and axe heads, and is especially notable for the beautiful carved tobacco pipes, and the stone butterflies and pendants which were evidently religious symbols to the ancient men who made them.
These articles deeply impress one with the artistic skill of their makers, and seem at first to indicate that they are the product of a race far more advanced than the Indians as we know them in historic times. In addition to this, the enormous quantities of such articles that have been found, and the great number of mounds which would seem to prove that the people who made these things were more numerous than the Indians whom Columbus found here. The occurrence of Lake Superior copper far to the south and other like facts show that commerce existed
among them.
These mounds and the men who built them have changed the American imagination for a hundred years, since first they were noticed. The view long accepted, and still held by many persons, is that outlined above—that the mounds were built by a race far more numerous and more advanced in culture than the Indians as we know them. This view seems to be shared by Mr.
Payne, who, however, frankly approaches the matter as a collector rather than as a student.
Science no longer accepts this view of a vanished race. The intensive study of the mounds by the world of science that these mounds and all of their strange and beautiful contents were the work of the ancestors of the Indians whom Columbus found here. In fact, it was established that some of the more western mounds were built after the white men came, as shown by the finding in them of steel knives, European glass beads and other articles which the Indians had obtained from the white men in trade. Moreover, the mound-building habit, though largely abandoned, still asserts itself occasionally. American ethno-logists have witnessed the building of several mounds by modern Indians.
The great number of the mounds, which seems
at first to prove a numerous people, is explained by the fact that war, pestilence and famine always cause primitive men to change their habits at frequent intervals. It is probable that only a small percentage of the mounds were occupied at any one time. The same phenomenon is observed in the Southwest, where there are hundreds of ruins for one occupied pueblo, including cliff dwellings and other types of habitation which have been abandoned because they are no longer necessary.
All of the information upon which this view of the mound-builders is based was gathered by the Bureau of Ethnology and published in a huge volume in its twelfth annual report in 1890. By one of the interested men, the same view of the evidence and form his own opinion. The government ethnologists spent some $50,000 in piling up mounds, collected an enormous amount of stuff and subjected it to scientific scrutiny. They seem to have proved their case pretty well.
In spite of this fact, the old belief in a vanished race is still the popular one. Mr. Payne could find many who agree with him.
The mounds, were first noticed about a hundred years ago and as far back as 1787 a book was written setting forth the theory that they were built by a vanished race. It was followed by many more of the same tenor, and these were widely read.
Borgoils, Egyptians, Mayas and Aztecs were variously described as the ancestors of the vanished race. Mr. Payne holds to the belief in the Mongol origin of the mound-builders, and points to many elements in his collection, beautifully wrought from stone, as evidence in point.
It is of course true that all the American Indians show many Asiatic traits and it is a widely accepted hypothesis that all of them are of an ancient Asiatic descent, probably having come across Behring Strait.
The six heads, spearheads and arrowheads in the Payne collection are remarkably fine, but it is especially notable for its collection of smoking pipes and of butterflies carved from stone. It was upon these things that the "ancient" American spent his best talent and showed himself a man of taste and artistic ability. Many of the stone pipes have been, pavers and other animals carved upon them with a skill that rivals that of the modern sculptor. The boring of these solid stone pipes is a piece of work which a modern workman with all of his tools would find it hard to duplicate.
Most beautiful of all are the stone butterflies which were religious symbols to their makers, as they are to the modern Indians. The butterfly in its larval stage goes into a cocoon, lies dormant for a long time, and then emerges again into vivid life. This, to the poetic Indian, symbolizes man's descent into the grave and his resurrection into an unknown future. An old Indian to whom Mr. Payne showed a fine butterfly piece, the work probably of one of his ancient forebears, snote his breast vehemently.
"Here!" he exclaimed. "Butterfly man, big man!"
There is no word there that, followed out, would add to the burden of the taxpayers and nothing—not a single thing—that will interfere with the efficient handling of city affairs. On the other hand the report shows where money can be saved, where it is possible to add to efficiency,
where and how the rates paid for fire insurance
by every person in Janesville can be reduced at a tremendous saving to the public.
We submit as a business question, if that is not worth more than passing attention. It is not merely a question for Janesville but for every city
in the state operating under a special charter now,
and after January 1 under the general state law
governing cities on the aldermanic plan.

THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.
A western judge
is investigating the divorce evil.
With the divorce business
seems to be that people make too much of trivial affairs.
Just the other day a man
asked for a divorce
for the reason that his wife
had not spoken to him
for three years, and another man wanted a divorce
because his wife refused to do the cooking for him.

Who's Who Today

JOSEPH C. GREW.
Joseph C. Grew, whose nomination as minister plenipotentiary to Sweden had been sent to the senate by President
Harding, has served the U.
S. in diplomatic circles since 1894.
Grew was born in Boston
in 1850. After graduating from Harvard in 1872 he taught in the public schools and then received his first appointment in the diplomatic service—being sent to Cairo, Egypt, as deputy consul general. Two years later he was made third secretary of the American embassy in Mexico City. Later he served in various capacities at Petrograd, Berlin and Vienna.
Early in the war he was with
the American embassy in Berlin and in 1920 Grew was appointed successor Norman Hapgood as minister to Denmark.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GURST.
A MORNING PRAYER.
This I will breathe for my morning prayer:
Give me strength for my round of care;
Let me face what the day may bring
Of hurt, or heartache, or wrong;
Let me use my talents, the best I can,
And come to my children at night—a man.
This is my prayer for the break of day:
Grant me strength for what I must do;
Let me rejoice as I go my way
In the thought that I should not do
And let me come home with a smiling face
Fit for my little ones' fond embrace.
This is my prayer for the morning now:
Grant me strength for what I must do;
Let me rejoice as I go my way
In the thought that I should not do
And let me come home with a smiling face
Fit for my little ones' fond embrace.

year old baby. I have nursed him so far and am able to continue without any difficulty, but I can't see the use of trying myself down when he can have just as well prepared on

help out with the family financially.
Can you advise me on this matter?
A. Answer—The mother of a healthy baby should not stop nursing him until he is at least a year old. It is better to nurse a baby than to put the baby on the bottle, when you can see so many thrive on the bottle.
If you had to stop nursing him, you would have to give him a good deal of artificial food, and you would about it. I shall be glad if you will

State Press Comment

Wisconsin First.
It is proposed that a state wide conference of progressive republicans be held for the purpose of naming candidates for United States senator and state offices in the campaign of 1922.
That campaign is being discussed away but it is pretty well understood that some of the elements which had to be contended with in 1920 must be reckoned with again a year hence. At that event it will be for the republican party to present a unified front.
A state wide conference, guided by thoughtful, far seeing, broad minded men, whose first interest is the good of Wisconsin, will meet a real need. Such a conference must be big enough and broad enough to put aside the selfish interests of individuals and disregard the personal ambitions of candidates or prospective candidates. It should be guided by men who are not expecting to be candidates on the ticket
but by those who have such ambitions.
It ought to be a genuine get together affair,
whose slogan is "Wisconsin First."—Jond du

LOOKING BACKWARD

Forty Years Ago
Sept. 26, 1881.—Michael O'Brien, aged 103 and 3 months, died at his home in Darion yesterday.
He was born in Ireland in 1778. He drank and smoked tobacco in excess and never had a sick moment until about ten minutes before his death.—Funeral services are being held in this

Opera house in the English performance of "Don Caesar de Bazan." It will be the feature attraction of the evening. Richard Golden appeared last night in "Old Jed Prouty,"
a story of New England village life.—A number of public buildings have been built or improved
this year, making it a record year in the growth of the city.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 26, 1901.—The Columbia and the Shamrock were to race at Highland, N. J., today but they failed to finish within the five hour limit and the race was called off. A gale had been detected on the overcoasting of the Columbia

Personal Health Service

There is to be found in this world, by sticking to the babies, until the young ones are able to shift for themselves—these, 100 per cent. mothers being just as loyal to their young as a bear to her cubs. The nursing of an infant means health for the infant and health for the mother; the shirking of the job brings misfortune to both.
Our correspondent evidently has a man for a husband and even though he is a very young man, she will make no mistake in adhering to her promise to love, honor and obey him.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Care of the Hair.
Is there anything to the hair if a man has the hair well rinsed after the shampoo? (Miss T. E. M.) Answer—Yes.
Gaining Weight.
Where can I get a menu for two weeks? (42) Please for a person 25
pounds underweight.
Answer—Glad to send you suggestions for increasing the weight. It is a matter of the diet and the exercise. I will send you a stamped addressed envelope for reply.
Running Bar.
Can you tell me the cause of running bar? (Joanne) Answer—Running bar is caused by an infection of the middle ("inner") ear cavity, which infection has gained entrance from the nose or throat through the eustachian tube. Therefore the original source of the trouble is generally found to be infected nose or throat. The infection is usually a physical training unhygienic clothing. It is generally a harmless condition, though how and small or very large. It is usually quite surgical treatment. A considerable proportion of vigorous young men selected for military service had runaway varicose.

A Column of Comment

There will be universal regret at the death of Henry Cochems. He was only 46 and had a long road to travel ahead of him when he was cut down. I heard Cochems make the speech nominating La Follette at Chicago in 1908. He was in deadly earnest and I wondered how he could be so wrought up on that subject. But he was and meant what he said. He had been less ardent and followed after fewer times it would have been better perhaps for Cochems. But a cynical view of life and government is an ostracism of the public.
Watertown has just finished the last fair in this section of the state was a huge success in spite of the

to be a substantial city—one of the best in the state. Its business street

SUNSET HILL.

I have run away to my sunset hill.
By the pretty path for the last mad
time.
There's only the space of a breath to
time.
And my mother frets in the tower
Where the eye-cyed things women wait.
With my bridal veil in their withered
hands.
For His Lordship's coach is at the gate.
And His Lordship quickens his limping
stride.
And the tiring women mouthe and While my Grandmother mumbles a wheezing prayer.
"With our madcap maid a wife, please God!"
Oh, sunset hill of the giddy glad days,
Have I scaled your crest in the last 2000
There are cockle burrs in my bridal gown.
"Or what if I'm taking the bramble
path
On the secret side, by the haunted
That leads away from His Lordship's coach?"
The old chimes are warning and chill.
My mother pales as she watches the clock.
My Grandmother shakes at His Lordship's frown.
(But I told my lad that I dared not dare.)
Which way, which way am I going down?
(He is brown and tall and his eyes are warm)
Oh, sunset hill, speak out and say—
With my rare lace rent and my fair flesh torn—
In the bramble path the smoothest
